Work with HCC to restore the gaps in the PUSH area, and don't use the criteria that both settlements must have a population of 10,000. However, I entirely agree that these gaps are vital to the feel and amenity of the area - but that they should not necessarily be remain static forever. | We need clearly defined regions or gaps to protect settlements from coalescence with sprawling expansions. Village and town boundaries need to be looked at carefully to allow for limited growth without merging into nearby settlements. Particularly need a well defined gap between Wickham and the new Fareham SDA. This is the southern boundary of WCC and is contiguous with Wickham Parish boundary. The SDA will reach right up to this boundary and WCC must set aside a section of the land to keep a distinct separation between Wickham and the new SDA. Local gaps may also be needed around villages to maintain their identity. | | | |

| Having gaps is so very important, once they are gone, they are gone forever. Not to say they can't be changed, but only after every other alternative has been considered. Hampshire is a rural county and people need to see and have space. Critically is the need to maintain a belt or space around Knowle Village which is highly threatened at present. | | | |
