YOUR COMMENTS ON THE CASE

I believe it is very important that Mr Oakley who was given planning permission for a home to replace the dilapidated dwelling which was previously located on the plot be held to account for treating the planning authorities with contempt by ignoring the plans originally granted by attempting to construct a much larger dwelling together with an area to train/exercise horses.

This surrounding area in which the plot Mr Oakley owns is particularly beautiful and is much loved by the residents of Winchester who come to exercise their dogs as well as enjoy the beauty of the surrounding views. It would be a great loss to have these views spoiled by the size of the dwelling and the associated landscaping were Mr Oakley to win his appeal.
