Proposal: Ash tree causing excessive shading to adjacent trees, with dropping of dead branches. Tree works to allow adjacent trees to flourish/reduce damage. After consultation with an arborist it has been suggested that:

'Take main ash branch back to the main stem which shouldn't put the canopy out much.

Another limb over the back could do with coming off back to the main stem and a few on the opposite side to balance the tree.

Crown reduction by up to 3 meters, the main limb to be taken back to main stem along with a few others and to carry out a crown clean. This would thin the crown out slightly and take all the dead, crossing and rubbing limbs out which cause the problems.'
